

	Description
Position Title:	RIBS Editor
Reports to:	Station Manager

Purpose

CAAMA (Central Australian Aboriginal Media Association) is an Aboriginal-owned media enterprise, established to empower people to participate actively in their communities and the broader national conversation while delivering the stories of First Nation Australians to the world in English and languages.

CAAMA broadcasts music, news, and programming across linear and digital platforms including 8KIN FM in Alice Springs, a network of Remote Indigenous Broadcasting Services (RIBS), as well as digital and social media.

We are looking for a passionate storyteller and media maker to build new content and programming for and about remote communities in Central Australia through developing the editorial output of our RIBS network.

Key Accountabilities

- Guide and support innovation in coverage of news and events in RIBS locations
- Gather and verify information through interview, observation, and research
- Curate, edit and produce RIBS content into a daily program for linear and digital platforms
- Offer mentoring support to RIBS correspondents, participate in training interventions

Key Capabilities/Qualifications/Experience

- Demonstrated experience creating news content for linear and/or digital platforms
- Strong broadcast and/or writing skills.
- Computer literacy required, knowledge of audio editing software preferred.
- Self-motivated and able to work in a fast-paced, deadline-driven environment.
- Excellent interpersonal skills, communication & influencing skills.
- Strong understanding of and commitment towards editorial values.
- Good network of contacts.
- Capacity in Aboriginal language(s) highly regarded.
- A demonstrated interest in the perspectives, experiences, and issues important to communities in Central Australia.
- Women candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people are strongly encouraged to apply.